SOCIOMETRY & SOCIAL WORK

The Department of Sociology and Social Work provides students with a variety of courses in two major areas.

MAJORS

The social work major is a professional degree that is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Its principal objective is to prepare students for beginning level, generalist social work practice.

Sociology can be defined as the scientific study of human societies. The sociology major prepares students who plan to enter graduate or professional school in the disciplines of sociology, law, urban planning, the ministry and numerous other professions as well as students intending to enter business. Students majoring in sociology will be introduced to the major theoretical paradigms and methodological procedures of the discipline. They will also select several electives from a variety of topical courses. Finally, majors will participate in a senior-level capstone course that will focus on current issues of significance or in an off-campus internship in an approved program.

Social Work

The baccalaureate social work major is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Students will learn that social work is a profession dedicated to assisting people to attain life satisfaction through personal, social and environmental changes. Social work uses a variety of generalist practice methods, including direct interventions, community organization, and social welfare planning and policy development. Social work is concerned with meeting the needs of oppressed populations, including those most vulnerable and discriminated against.

Only graduates who are social work majors are eligible for licensing (LBSW) in Michigan and other states.

Social work majors alone are eligible to reduce the time in M.S.W. programs by up to two semesters through advanced standing programs. Please consult the social work faculty for more details.

In addition to their classroom experiences, social work students engage in a wide variety of activities working with various client populations in their internships:

• Work with community organizations
• Work with community agencies in program planning and implementation
• Work with the elderly
• Work with unemployed and underemployed
• Work with people encountering difficult life transitions
• Conduct social research in the community
• Work with the developmentally and physically challenged
• Work with juvenile delinquents
• Work with at-risk school children

The requirements for the social work major include the following social work courses:

• SWK 241 – Introduction to Social Welfare
• 6 Credits from the following elective courses:
  ° SWK 232 – Social Work and Family
  ° SWK 242 – Child Welfare
  ° SWK 250 – Global Studies in Social Work
  ° SWK 253 – Disability and Community
  ° SWK 375 – Comparative Mental Health US/UK
  ° SWK 295 – Studies in Social Work
• SWK 262 – Methods of Social Research
• SWK 312 – Human Behavior and Social Environment
• SWK 315 – Social Work with Diverse Populations
• SWK 320 – Social Work Interviewing
• SWK 322 – Contemporary Social Policy
• SWK 351, 352 and 401 – Social Work Interventions I, II and III
• SWK 443 and 446 – Social Work Field Experience I and II

All social work majors must formally apply to the Social Work Program by February 15 of their freshman year or October 15 of their sophomore year. Undeclared second semester sophomore students should seek the advice of the Social Work Program Director concerning Admission to the Social Work Program. Admission is competitive and not guaranteed. To be eligible for admission –

1. Applicants must have completed or be currently enrolled in PSY 100, SOC 101 and SWK 241.
2. Applicants must have a minimum GPA of 2.5 and a minimum GPA of 2.7 in their social work courses.
3. Applicants need two recommendations from Hope College faculty/staff.
4. Applicants must submit a written personal statement which includes information about their commitment to social work as a vocation and describes their prior volunteer service in the field.

A student who does not fully meet one or more of the admission criteria may be admitted to the Social Work Program conditionally, provided the student, after an interview with the Program Director of Social Work, agrees to resolve the concerns by the end of the following semester. Conditionally accepted students should be aware that there are risks involved in pursuing the first year of the social work major on a conditional basis. A minimum GPA of 2.5 and a minimum GPA of 2.7 in the social work major are required for graduation.

In addition, the following cognate courses are required:

- PSY 100 – Introduction to Psychology
- POL 100 – Introduction to American Political Institutions or POL 110 or POL 151
- SOC 101 – Sociology and Social Problems
- GEMS 158 - Human Biology or BIOL 221 - Human Physiology
- MATH 210 – Introductory Statistics or Math 311 - Statistical Methods

SWK 241 must be completed in the Spring Semester of the freshman year or the Fall Semester of the sophomore year. To ensure the fulfillment of all the social work degree requirements, students are urged to follow the schedule of courses indicated in the following four year curriculum:

With prior permission, social work students may be allowed to carry out internships at the Chicago Semester or Denver Urban Center.

No academic credit for life experience or previous work experience will be given in lieu of any social work or cognate courses required for social work major.

Graduates of Hope's Social Work Program have been involved in a variety of satisfying careers such as:

- Social workers in a variety of practice settings
- Graduate programs in social work
- Ministers and church workers
- Legal aid lawyers
- Directors of drug clinics
- Professional counselors
- Supervisors in counseling centers
- Urban planners
- Teachers of social work
- Community organizers
- Director of social welfare programs

Sociology

The sociology major requires a minimum of 28 credits. This must include:

- SOC 101 – Sociology and Social Problems
- SOC 261 – Theoretical Perspectives in Sociology
- SOC 262 – Methods of Social Research
- SOC 495 – Capstone Seminar in Sociology
- 12 credits of Sociology electives with at least 8 credits at the 300-level.

In addition, students must demonstrate competence in statistics; this is usually accomplished by completing MATH 210 or 311.

Off-Campus Options

Many sociology majors take advantage of off-campus programs, both domestic and international. Students have been enrolled in the Chicago Semester as well as in such international programs as those in England, Ireland, Scotland, Santiago, and Australia. The department strongly encourages students to avail themselves of these options, and we are ready to review the available course offerings to determine if they can count towards the sociology major or minor. In some instances, departmental credit will be granted for internship experiences in off-campus settings.

Sociology majors are encouraged to take the following sequence of courses:

Sociology with Criminal Justice Focus

Sociology majors may elect to graduate with a Criminal Justice (CJ) emphasis. This 32-credit program is intended for students preparing for careers in law enforcement, the criminal justice system and related occupations.

The CJ emphasis is offered in conjunction with The Chicago Semester. Students must complete:

- SOC 101, 261 and 262,
- SOC 221 and 222 – Criminology I and II sequence
- Four-credit sociology elective at the 300-level (recommend SOC 312 or SOC 314 and 316)
- Four-credit course, Social Justice (to be offered through The Chicago Semester)
- Related 8-credit internship in Chicago

As with all majors, CJ students must demonstrate competence in Statistics.

MINORS

Sociology

The Sociology minor consists of 20 credits of courses. Students will be required to complete SOC 101, 261 and 262. In addition, they will need to take another eight credits from among the department’s courses, four of which must be at the 300-level.
COURSES

SOCIOMETRY

SOC 101 - Sociology and Social Problems
An examination of the concepts and theories which make up the sociological perspective, the evidence which tests these theories, and the ways in which the sociological perspective can aid in understanding social phenomena in the contemporary world. A lab is included in this class. This course fulfills the Social Science I requirement of General Education.

- Credits Awarded: 4
- Terms Offered: Fall, Spring
- Attribute: Social Science 1 (SS1)

SOC 151 - Cultural Anthropology
A study of the historical trends in anthropology that have led to its present perspectives. The concepts of functionalism and cultural relativism are examined and evaluated. The course surveys various cultural patterns around the world. This course fulfills the Social Science I requirement of General Education.

- Credits Awarded: 4
- Terms Offered: Fall
- Attribute: Social Science 1 (SS1)

SOC 221 - Criminology I
Students will be introduced to the principal sociological perspectives on the causes of crime, with special emphasis on critically assessing and comparing key theoretical explanations of crime. This course is required for students planning to major in sociology with a criminal justice emphasis and fulfills the Social Science II requirement.

- Credits Awarded: 2
- Terms Offered: Fall
- Prerequisites: Soc 221
- Corequisites: Soc 221

SOC 222 - Criminology II
Students will be introduced to the criminal justice system with a focus on the principal sociological perspectives on the roles of law enforcement agencies, the judicial and penal systems, and post-conviction treatments. This course is required for students planning to major in sociology with a criminal justice emphasis. Students may take Soc 221 either prior to enrollment in or concurrently with the class.

- Credits Awarded: 2
- Terms Offered: Fall
- Prerequisites: Soc 221
- Corequisites: Soc 221

SOC 233 - Sociology of the Family
This course examines several theoretical approaches to understanding the family as a social system, examines issues in the family, examines the social-class variations in the family and examines ethnically diverse families in the U.S.

- Credits Awarded: 4
- Terms Offered: Spring
SOC 261 - Theoretical Perspectives in Sociology
This course will consider principal historical and contemporary sociologists and their approaches to the study of society. Through their historical periods and their intellectual and personal biographies, students will be introduced to the major concepts, questions and expectations that sociologists consider.

Credits Awarded: 4
Terms Offered: Fall
Prerequisites: Soc 101, Declared sociology major or minor

SOC 262 - Methods of Social Research
A beginning course in the research designs, methods, and techniques used by social scientists. Students will become acquainted with probability theory, hypothesis testing, sampling, and elementary descriptive and inferential statistics. Computer-assisted projects and exercises using a variety of data sets will be introduced in laboratory sessions. Cross-listed with Swk 262.

Credits Awarded: 4
Terms Offered: Spring
Prerequisites: Soc 101, Declared sociology major or minor, or declared social work major

SOC 269 - Race and Ethnic Relations
The role that racial and ethnic diversity plays in society continues to be crucial. Much of contemporary social inequality, social conflict and efforts toward accommodation and assimilation have their roots in this diversity. In addition to describing and analyzing these themes, this course will offer an assessment of the American experience in light of broader global trends. This course fulfills the Social Science II general education requirement.

Credits Awarded: 4
Terms Offered: Fall
Attribute: Social Science 2 (SS2)

SOC 271 - Sociology of Gender I
In this course we will examine the different roles prescribed to individuals on the basis of sex. The particular focus will be the role of socialization and social institutions. We will consider the consequences of women's and men's assigned roles for their home and family life, work roles and achievements, media portrayals, and religious practices. This course fulfills the Social Science II and 2 credits of the cultural diversity requirements.

Credits Awarded: 2
Terms Offered: Spring
Attribute: Social Science 2 (SS2)

SOC 272 - Sociology of Gender II
In this half of the course we will examine the most popular gender theories and discuss their impact on men's and women's roles in the U.S. culture. We will focus more specifically on men's roles, the history and impact of the women's movement, and prospective gender roles in the future. This course includes an intergroup dialogue experience. Students may take Soc 271 either prior to enrollment in or concurrently with the class.

Credits Awarded: 2
Terms Offered: Spring
Prerequisites: Soc 271
Corequisites: Soc 271
Attribute: Social Science 2 (SS2)
SOC 281 - Sociology of Popular Culture

Human beings are immersed in culture; it touches all aspects of our lives. We create, alter, and are influenced by culture; in fact it is one of the most powerful socialization agents we encounter. In this course we will explore the meanings and impacts of culture. We will discuss how our current culture shapes us, and how we shape current culture. We will begin to view popular culture through what C. Wright Mills called the Sociological Imagination. We will give extensive attention to issues of gender, race, and class and its impacts on popular culture. By the time you finish this course you will be equipped with a new perspective on how to interpret the culture in which you live.

Credits Awarded: 4
Terms Offered: Fall, Even Years

SOC 295 - Studies in Sociology

A course offered in response to student and instructor interest. Topics are not generally covered in the regular course listings. Course may be taken multiple times if topics are different.

Credits Awarded: 2-4
Terms Offered: As Needed

SOC 314 - Power and Society

Political sociology is centrally concerned with political relations, policies, and practices as well as larger questions of conflict, cooperation, power, influence and authority. Its basic task is to explore the myriad of ways that different groups compete for resources and influence. This course examines the relationship between society and politics, the interactions between individuals and governments. With an awareness of agency and structure, processes of nationalism, globalization and civil society are investigated. We will consider ideology and attempt to understand political identity. We will examine power, social movements, and cultural politics. This course primarily will focus on the relationships between the U.S. and democracy both at home and abroad. Through our sociological study of politics students will gain a better understanding of the interactions amongst class, race, and gender, dictatorship and democracy, culture and mass communication, production, consumption, distribution, centralization and decentralization, competition and coalitions, power and resistance, rights and responsibilities in addition to cultural, philosophical and social concerns. This course will also examine the processes of globalization and polarization and connect these processes to meanings of citizenship and civil society.

Credits Awarded: 2
Terms Offered: Spring
Attribute: Social Science 2 (SS2)
SOC 316 - Sociology of Law

This course will provide a unique perspective on the law - how it works, how it is made and meted out, and how it impacts on and is impacted by the larger culture. We will examine law as a social process, law in action - recognizing that "law" does not take place in a social vacuum. This course examines the relationship between law and society, focusing particular attention on: the larger social and political context in which laws are created and implemented and the consequences of law for individuals and institutions in society. Students will be introduced to, and then apply, the scholarly theories and research of law and society, including contemporary American legal issues. We will explore the practice of law in American society by examining the nature of legal reasoning and the purpose and function of various parts of the legal process and legal institutions.

- Credits Awarded: 2
- Terms Offered: Spring
- Attribute: Social Science 2 (SS2)

SOC 330 - Social Psychology

This course addresses the specific study of how people think about, influence, and relate to one another. Topics include the self, conformity, persuasion, prejudice, and interpersonal attraction. Data collection and analysis are part of the laboratory experience. Psy 100 or Soc 101, and Psy 200 or Soc 262, are highly recommended prior to this course. Cross-listed with Psy 330.

- Credits Awarded: 4
- Terms Offered: Fall, Spring

SOC 333 - Medical Sociology

An introduction to the sociological study of health, illness, and medicine more generally. The impact of gender, race and social class on health outcomes will be emphasized. Attention will also be directed to health care delivery systems, health professional education and socialization, and patient perspectives and experiences.

- Credits Awarded: 4
- Terms Offered: Spring

SOC 341 - Sociology of Religion

The study of religion has been central to sociology from its earliest days. This course will introduce students to the major theoretical approaches used to study religion. A focus will be on sociological explanations of religious beliefs, affiliation and practices. We explore topics such as religious organizations, gender differences in religiosity, generational shifts, secularization, and how religion patterns stratification.

- Credits Awarded: 4
- Terms Offered: Spring, Odd Year
- Attribute: Social Science 2 (SS2)

SOC 356 - Social Movements

This course is about social movements – collective action in which groups use institutionalized and non-institutionalized tactics to promote or resist social and political change. Students will study the history and impact of the Civil Rights Movement as a template for other historic and contemporary examples of social change. Students will also serve in a local community organizing placement in order to see the application of course material on community development. These placements will be made by the second week of class by the instructor.

- Credits Awarded: 4
- Terms Offered: Spring, Even Years
SOC 390 - Advanced Research
A research oriented course designed to get advanced students actively involved in an ongoing research project. The course is primarily intended for students contemplating graduate studies in sociology. Students will be assisting professors with a research project and thus be learning by doing. This course may be taken only once.

- Credits Awarded: 0-6
- Terms Offered: Fall
- Prerequisites: Soc 262, Permission of instructor

SOC 395 - Studies in Sociology
A course offered in response to student and instructor interest. Topics are not generally covered in the regular course listings. Course may be taken multiple times if topics are different.

- Credits Awarded: 1-4
- Terms Offered: As Needed
- Prerequisites: Permission of instructor

SOC 490 - Independent Studies in Sociology
This program affords an opportunity for advanced students in sociology to pursue a project of their own interest beyond the regular course offerings. The project may take one of several forms: 1) library readings on a topic in sociology, 2) a supervised research project, 3) a supervised field project combining study with appropriate work experience.

- Credits Awarded: 1-4
- Terms Offered: Fall, Spring
- Prerequisites: Permission of instructor

Credits Awarded: 2
Terms Offered: Fall, Spring

SWK 241 - Introduction to Social Welfare
This course examines the history and philosophy of social welfare and the contribution of social work to social welfare institutions. This course is designed to be an introductory course for students who are considering social work as a career. It is particularly designed for potential social work majors but students entering other helping professions will benefit from understanding the social welfare system and the role that social workers perform in social services in a global world.
The generalist social work practice model will be a guiding assumption of the course. Social work occurs within a political context that will be considered throughout the course. An examination of social work’s knowledge base, practice skills, and values will be pervasive themes. Beginning Spring 2020, this course will move from 2 to 4 credits.
Credits Awarded: 4
Prerequisites: Soc 101

Incorporating an understanding of the history of global social welfare and a commitment to the values and ethics consistent with the profession of social work, this course critically looks at specific social justice issues facing the global community and the field of social work. This course will provide students with a better understanding of global issues and their impact on practice and policy at all levels.
Credits Awarded: 2
Terms Offered: Spring
SWK 253 - Disability and Community

This course explores the fundamental importance of community to human life and well-being. This focus on the nature of community will intersect with the concepts of ability, disability, debility and "normality/normalcy" and their social construction, with an especial focus on developmental disabilities. Together, these provide the foundation for understanding how a society views persons who developmentally vary from social expectations of the "norm", and the values associated with this variance. Students will also delve into the nature of function of "community" with regard to individual and collective well-being. Together these foci provide the context for understanding how programs that support/facilitate community for persons with disabilities are constructed, implemented, and evaluated. Much of the course content is experiential, and opportunities to interact with local organizations and programs that support persons with disabilities are an important component of the course. The course will also seek to compare and contrast who social constructions of disability (and associated programs and services) vary across cultures.
